Model UN Parliamentary Procedure Cheat Sheet

One of the hardest aspects of Model UN to grasp is parliamentary procedure. Remember that whenever you'd like to ask a question or participate in some way, raise your placard. Below is a quick table of information:

Motion	Effect	Required to Pass
Motion to Open the Speakers List	Allows delegates to sign up to speak.	Simple Majority Vote
Motion to Set the Speaker's Time	Sets or changes the amount of time each delegate has to speak.	Simple Majority Vote
Point of Information	Allows a delegate to question a speaker.	Decision of Speaker (Speaker can yield time to the chairpersons and not take questions)
Point of Inquiry	Allows a delegate to ask the chairperson a question regarding the rules of procedure. Must be made can be made when the floor is open (i.e. when no other delegate is speaking)	No Vote
Point of Personal Privilege	Allows a delegate to inform the chairperson of a physical discomfort he or she is experiencing, such as not being able to hear another delegate's speech.	No Vote
Point of Order	Used when a delegate believes the chair has made an error in the running of the committee. The delegate should only specify the errors they believe were made in the formal committee procedure, and may not address the topic being discussed.	Decision of Chair
Motion to Hold a Moderated Caucus	A moderated caucus is a mixture of both formal and informal debate. Delegates raise their placards and, after being called on by the Chair, speak one at a time about the topic. Time limit of the caucus is limited.	Simple Majority Vote
Motion to Hold an Unmoderated Caucus	In an unmoderated caucus, delegates meet informally with one another to discuss and negotiate draft resolutions, amendments and other issues. Delegates can move around and committee procedure is suspended. Time limit of the caucus is limited.	Simple Majority Vote
Motion to Adjourn Meeting	Ends the committee session until the next session, which might be the next year's conference, or after lunch or dinner.	Simple Majority Vote
Motion to Move into Voting Procedure / Close Debate	Allows delegates to move the committee to a vote on a resolution.	Two-Thirds Majority Vote
Motion to Adjourn (Table)	Used to table (put on hold) all of the work that the committee has completed on a particular topic. Usually you can come back to the topic at a later time.	Two-Thirds Majority Vote

Model UN Resolutions Cheat Sheet

Model UN revolves around resolving issues. The best way to do this is by passing resolutions, or compiled lists of information that address a topic in ways that respect a nation's national sovereignty (power to rule itself and not have anyone else rule a nation unless they allow it), look at the topic with different mindsets, and address the topic in a multitude of ways. Please note that money is not an issue in Model UN. We do not deal with the restricting issues that money brings, so just assume we have unlimited funds.

In order to create a resolution, unlike your English essays, you have to look at the two different sections of it, preambulatory and operative clauses.

Preambulatory Clauses

In this section, you get to address the problem by citing statistics. This is your chance to show the hours of research you've done by compiling the best, most mind-blowing statistics in your resolution to set the stage and impress your readers. Aside from statistics, you can reference the UN Charter, cite past UN resolutions or treaties, make general statements (note—none of these should be "actions"—they should just be observations / facts; no ways to resolve to the topic yet!), or quote those from the UN body. Each preambulatory clause should not be numbered; instead, it should start with a preambulatory key word (shown below) which is underlined. The clause should end in a comma.

Commonly Used Preambulatory Clauses:

Affirming	Deeply disturbed	Guided by	Noting with approval
Alarmed by	Deeply regretting	Having adopted	Observing
Approving	Desiring	Having considered	Reaffirming
Aware of	Emphasizing	Having considered further	Realizing
Bearing in mind	Expecting	Having devoted attention	Recalling
Believing	Expressing its appreciation	Having examined	Recognizing
Confident	Expressing its satisfaction	Having heard	Referring
Contemplating	Fulfilling	Having received	Seeking
Convinced	Fully alarmed	Having studied	Taking into account
Declaring	Fully aware	Keeping in mind	Taking into consideration
Deeply concerned	Fully believing	Noting with regret	Taking note
Deeply conscious	Further deploring	Noting with deep concern	Viewing with appreciation
Deeply convinced	Further recalling	Noting with satisfaction	Welcoming
		Noting further

Operative Clauses

In this section, you will announce your ideas for resolution of the topic. Please note that only the Security Council can use the key word "Condemns" in the beginning of an operative clause. In resolutions, your operative clauses should be numbered (with the key word in the beginning underlined) in a way that each numbered clause expresses a single idea. If you feel a need to elaborate, end the clause with a colon (":") and then make a paragraph break and indent. Now, in your alphabetical list, you can expand upon the idea with excess details (each list item should with a comma except for the last, which should end in a semicolon; these do not need key words). Otherwise, every clause in the operatives should end in a semicolon with the last clause ending with a period for finality.

Commonly Used Operative Clauses:

Accepts	Declares accordingly	Further proclaims	Regrets
Affirms	Deplores	Further reminds	Reminds
Approves	Designates	Further recommends	Requests
Authorizes	Draws the attention	Further requests	Solemnly affirms
Calls	Emphasizes	Further resolves	Strongly condemns
Calls upon	Encourages	Has resolved	Supports
Condemns	Endorses	Notes	Takes note of
Confirms	Expresses its appreciation	Proclaims	Transmits
Congratulates	Expresses its hope	Reaffirms	Trusts
Considers	Further invites	Recommends
